Excellent, thank you. I will block off June 15 for now and we can connect again the first week of June, as you suggest.

This is the note that I got back from our Operations team:

- Just got pushed to 6/6 this week. I know the GC we are working for is having their struggles out there with the weather.
- I would say 4 days to sew and 4 days to inlay before we start dropping infill, so perhaps the middle of that next week...June 15 or so.

Let's check back the first week of June to see how we are tracking schedule wise.

Hi Darren,

I would like to begin to schedule the observation of the infilling stage of the field installation at George Mason University. Could you propose the date(s) within the planned period for the infilling stage that is not likely to drop out of that infilling frame should there be any delays? I would like to put something on our calendars.

Thank you so much and all the best,

Ksenija

To clarify, they are all our “elite” system with cryogenic rubber.

Hi Darren,

I wanted to quickly follow-up with you to see if in all the three incoming installations you mentioned, the same product system will be used?

Thank you,

Ksenija

Hi Darren,

Thank you so much for this quick follow up. We were also wondering if there were any differences between the three incoming field installations, especially as they pertain to the product systems used, e.g. elite versus prestige.
